

CLEVELAND'S STRENGTH.

IT LOOKS LIKE A FIRST BALLOT.

Election at Chicago New. General Hutton's Appointment—Silver in the Senate—Washington News.

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 30.—[Special.]—There has been some gossip here today, although it was Decoration day. The latter, by the way, although the weather was fine and cool, was not as generally observed as it has been in years past. Decorating was, in fact, confined mainly to Grand Army posts.

People as a rule went out of town on excursions. With politicians it was different. They circulated around the hotel lobbies and talked and talked. This was particularly the case with the unknown hotels. To the Arlington lobby was where most of them found their way. The great Tom Platt of New York was there. He is supposed to know something of the intentions of Mr. Blaine. He was much sought after, but he would not talk to newspaper men. He received a number of anti-Harrison men, but if he said anything to them that was important and true it has not developed. The chances are also that even the great Platts are in the confidence of Mr. Blaine than any other man. He is against Harrison, that is all. That he and the rest of them are still pondering around looking for somebody with whom to beat Harrison is evident. That they have plans with them there is not a thing to show. That Blaine will have to bargain with Harrison was the only general opinion to-day. In fact it was a Harrison day. The hurrah for Blaine is not, however, the least bit abated. But it is a hurrah still. Before the anti-Harrison people can do much against Harrison by using Blaine's name they will have to show some thing tangible, and it is generally thought now that they are wholly unable to make any such demonstration. The probable work that the Minneapolis Convention would do was more talked of than the possible outcome at Chicago because the Republicans meet first.

CLEVELAND'S GREAT WEEDING.

But still there was a good deal of talk about the Chicago event. Its character can be summed up in a few words. It was that Cleveland is stronger to-day than ever before, and that he is growing stronger every hour. Predictions of his chances on the first ballot were very general. It looks to-day to be the most probable thing in the world that the leaders in the impending campaign will be the same that they were in 1888.

The league for Minneapolis will commence to-morrow. There will be senators and members among those who will start for the fray to-morrow. There are many who think that at Minneapolis that there were at Chicago four years ago, but there will not be a more considerable number as many members of the House there. As far as learned members of the administration will be at the party's convention. It is a singular fact that no more newspaper men are at Chicago from here than at Minneapolis. This evidences the change which has come over the newspaper fraternity here. It was not very many years ago that the Republican newspaper work at the national capitals were about three to every Democratic, and in similar work. Now the Democrats are in the majority.

GENERAL HUTTON'S APPOINTMENT.

The appointment of General E. A. Hutton as Senator to succeed the late Senator Barbour was very well received in this city, where General Hutton has been so long and so favorably known, both personally and professionally. As a lawyer General Hutton stands in the first rank at the bar here, which is one of the strongest in the United States. His old associates in Congress are gratified at his return to public life. His services to his State and to the party, as well as to the country generally, have been extremely valuable. As a member of the Judiciary Committee of the House, General Hutton left the impress of a clear and logical mind upon the statutory legislation of the country. His legal attainments are wide and varied, and it was in recognition of this fact that he was appointed a member of the Electoral Commission, which was created to determine the presidency in 76. He was generally recognized as, perhaps, the best lawyer and ablest man among the minority of the commission. There is no doubt but he will take high rank in the Senate.

SHERMAN WILL LEAD OFF.

Senator Sherman is expected to lead off to-morrow on the anti-silver side of the debate over the Stewart bill. His speech, of course, will be the strongest possible presentation of the single standard view and will be intended to counteract as far as may be the influence of the silver standard and silver men at the Minneapolis Convention. The silver bill now has the right of way in the Senate and no doubt an arrangement will be made by which its present advantages position may be maintained. If this be done the Senate will also be forced to a consideration of certain special orders, among which are the bill for the development of silk culture and the bill for fixing the compensation of the United States district attorneys. When the silver bill is made temporarily inoperative the senators interested on the various sides of the question an opportunity to attend the political conventions of the parties, the Senate will take up the Sundry Civil bill and attempt to get it through speedily.

When the silver bill should pass the Senate and the House both there is no prospect for its becoming a law so long as such a rabid and inflexible golding as President Harrison occupies the White House.

The House will be engaged during the week on appropriation bills.

Decorations Day in Petersburg.

PETERSBURG, Va., May 30.—[Special.]—National Decoration day was observed here by the closing of the different Government offices. This afternoon a very large crowd went out to the National cemetery at Poplar Grove, in Dinwiddie county, three miles from here, to take part in the memorial exercises. There had been a heavy rain, but the sun shined brightly. The services were held at 10 o'clock. The graves of the 6,129 soldiers buried in this cemetery were decorated with flowers, including in this number thirty-nine Confederate soldiers, sixteen known and twenty-three unknown. A floral tribute was placed on each of these graves. The graves of the Federal soldiers buried at the National cemetery in Prince George county near City Point were also decorated with flowers. The ceremonies were conducted by Phil Kearney Post, of Richmond, who, with about three hundred ladies and gentlemen, came to the Point on a barge in tow of the steam tug Job Wilson.

At 11 o'clock a number of persons met with an accident this afternoon which will, in all probability, cause his death. He was walking along the track of the Norfolk and Western railroad, a short distance from Wakefield, when he was struck by the locomotive of the "Atlantic Mail" train. He was brought to this city for treatment.

Rev. A. J. Frattone, of Accomac county, the pastor for the Second Baptist church, arrived here this afternoon accompanied by his family.

Mr. James Hutchinson and Misses Maggie H. Johnson, Mamie Roberts and Maggie Taylor narrowly escaped being seriously injured this afternoon. They were driving down Halifax avenue when a buggy ran into the vehicle in which they were seated, completely demolishing it.

ALMOST A CLASH OF ARMS.

Russian Troops March in Hostile Array Against the Austrian Forces.

VIENNA, May 30.—The spectacle of Russian troops marching in hostile array against the Austrian forces was witnessed yesterday at the Galician frontier near Radzivov. The Austrian garrison at Brody, a few miles from the Russian-Polish frontier, were out manœuvring and in the course of tramping about unwittingly crossed into Russian territory. The whole frontier is patrolled by Cossacks and on discovering the Austrians on Russian soil they reported to the Russian commander at Radzivov, where the Austrians had been seen approaching in the distance at a double quick; but before the Russians got within firing range the Austrians were on their own side of the line. The Russians acted as if they were disappointed and their commander, after placing a strong outpost on the Russian side, the Austrians had crossed, returned slowly to Radzivov. The incident was at once reported by the Brody commander to the general in command of the Austrian forces in Eastern Galicia. The affair is regarded in Vienna of considerable significance as showing the readiness of the Russians to seize any pretext for hostilities.

MRS. DAVIS' REGRETS.

At Not Being Able to Visit Norfolk—Federal Decoration Day.

NORFOLK, Va., May 30.—[Special.]—Mrs. ex-President Davis, being invited to be present at the memorial exercises of the Pickett-Buchanan Camp, has written a letter expressing her regrets, in which she says: "Remembering clearly as I do the tender sympathy extended to me and my family by the citizens of Norfolk when he lay in prison at Fort Monroe, a visit to Norfolk would be to me a most agreeable reunion with old and dear friends, but unfortunately I am not physically able to join you now in doing so. To those who have fought the good fight and entered into their rest."

Without assigning any reason Rev. John W. Dougherty has tendered his resignation as pastor of the South-street Baptist church. Some of the members of his church had any intimation of his intention.

CLINTON, FORCE, Va., May 30.—[Special.]—A game of base ball played here this evening between the Clinton Force and the Clinton Ohio railway ships and the Clinton Force nine resulted in a score of thirty-two to five in favor of the Clinton Force team. The game was a one-sided one from the beginning, the material of the town nine being far superior to that of the ship nine. The Clinton Force rolled up the battery of the ship nine, and Martin and Meeks of the town nine, John Lipow, of Charlottesville was umpire.

THE GRAY AND THE BLUE.

HONOR THE MEMORY OF GRANT.

Colonel Marshall Makes a Very Liberal Speech—The Soldiers' and Sailors' Monument Unveiled at Rochester.

NEW YORK, May 30.—The grand feature of Decoration day in this city was the military parade which took place this morning and in which the regular troops, the militia, the naval reserve and the Grand Army of the Republic took part. After breaking ranks the different posts and associations went to the various cemeteries, where they decorated the graves of the fallen heroes. There were special services at the tomb of General Grant at Riverside Park. General Horace Porter, chairman of the Grant monument committee, delivered an eulogy on the character of the hero. Members of the Grand Army of the Republic also present at the tomb, a number of ex-Confederates and a number of ex-Confederates.

COLONEL MARSHALL'S ADDRESS.

Among them was Colonel Marshall, who delivered an address, and in part read: "It is not easy to express the thoughts that the scene before me inspires in my mind, and in the mind of every man who understands the full meaning of this occasion. Men who once were arrayed against each other in deadly strife are now met together to do honor to the memory of one who led one part of this audience to a complete and absolute victory over the other; yet in the hearts of the victors there is no feeling of triumph, and in the hearts of the vanquished there is no bitterness, humiliation."

"No such peace as our peace ever followed immediately upon such a war as our war. The exhausted South was completely at the mercy of the victorious North, and yet the sound of the last gun had scarcely died away when not only peace, but peace and good will were re-established. I am here today with the feeling that I express the feelings of every Confederate soldier to bear witness that the American people are indebted for this great blessing, for all the good that followed it and for the peace and good will that have been the result of it to the illustrious man whose grave we strew with flowers of gratitude and affectionate veneration more than to any other, and to none is the duty of recognition of his great service more than to the soldiers of the Confederacy."

GRANT AND LEE AT APPOMATOX.

"At Appomattox, during the meeting of General Grant and General Lee, the conversation turned on the subject of a general peace, as to which General Grant had already declared the want of power to treat, but in speaking of the means by which a general peace might be effected General Grant said to General Lee, 'I want this war to end without the shedding of another drop of American blood. Not Northern blood, not Southern blood, but American blood, for in his eyes all the men around him, and all those who might be then confronting him, were Americans. These words made a great impression upon all who heard them, as they did upon General Lee, who told us with no little emotion that he took occasion to express to General Grant his appreciation of the noble and generous spirit which he uttered by him. It is in the light of this noble thought of General Grant that I have always considered the course pursued by him at the moment of his supreme triumph at Appomattox, and seen in that light nothing could be more noble and more generous than that of Grant at Appomattox, and it is the glory of America that her institutions loved men who are equal to the greatest strain that can be put upon their courage and their patriotism."

HOW FRANKIE GOT GRANT.

Colonel Marshall, in concluding his address, said: "At the entrance of the great harbor of our commercial metropolis stands the representation of 'Liberty Enlightening the World.' In her hand she holds the torch towards which the artist desired to draw the eyes of all nations, the hope of the oppressed and helpless of mankind. Here upon this sacred spot, my brethren, raise a noble and grand temple, the hope and aspiration of the children of our national faith, and upon this altar inscribe for the teaching of the coming generation of Americans, the illustrious name, 'Grant of Appomattox, Grant the Magnanimous.'"

Soldiers' and Sailors' Monument. Rochester, N. Y., May 30.—The great event of today was the unveiling of the Soldiers' and Sailors' monument. This was the event which the people of Rochester had been waiting for, and which had drawn such a distinguished crowd to Rochester from all parts of the State. The monument is a tall column of solid granite nine feet high, resting on a granite base and carrying a statue of Minerva, the symbol of wisdom, in forty-three feet high. On each corner of the base is a statue representing some branch of the naval or military service. On the four sides of the base are bronze pictures representing war scenes. The monument was planned eleven years ago. It is now completed.

The monument unveiled.

At the signal the young ladies standing at the base of the monument pulled the cord that released the drapery of the statue and it floated to the ground, leaving the column revealed in all its beauty. Cheers after cheer went up from the vast assemblage and the band struck up 'Rienzi's American hymn. When the tumult had subsided Dr. David J. Hill, president of the University of Rochester, presented to the audience and delivered the oration. The band played 'Street of the Old Country,' and 'Columbia's Flag.' Samuel H. Lowe, of Rochester, was then introduced to read the poem of the day. The memorial cheer under Professor H. B. Wilkins, sang Mendelssohn's 'Fidelius' as their introductory hymn.

A profound silence General Reynolds then introduced President Harrison, who spoke at some length. Governor Flower also spoke. Mr. G. R. Parsons then presented the monument to the care and keeping of the city. Mayor Curran responded, accepting the monument for the city. The benediction was then pronounced by Rev. Asa Saxa.

SEVENTY-SEVENTH ANNIVERSARY.

Trinity Methodist Sunday School's Annual Celebration.

The seventy-seventh anniversary exercises of Trinity Methodist Sunday school was held in that church at 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon, and were deeply interesting and greatly enjoyed.

The large audience room, galleries, corridors and available space was filled at a very early hour, and a number of persons failed to get in.

The exercises were conducted by Mr. John W. Ferguson, president of the society, and Mr. Charles P. Rudy, assistant superintendent, and consisted of addresses by the children, recitations, etc., by the infant class under direction of Mr. T. L. D. Walcott, and recitations and singing by the Wesleyan mission school under direction of Mr. A. R. Cheatham, superintendent.

The main feature of the afternoon was the beautiful emblematic representation of the "Heavenly Gates to the Celestial City."

Nineteen lovely young maidens, dressed in virgin white, wearing golden crowns, made a surpassingly beautiful scene as they stood in the doorway of the heavenly word, and then through the aisle and up the golden steps strewn with flowers, through the "Beautiful Gates" into the Celestial City, while the strains of the organ in soft and sweetest tones filled every heart with joy.

Brooklyn Lost Two Games and Chicago Won Two—New York Wins One—Metropolitan Handicap at Morris Park.

NEW YORK, May 30.

ROOKLYN and Cincinnati engaged in an eleven-inning contest at Eastern Park this morning.

The game was one of the finest played this season. It was certainly the most exciting played on the Brooklyn grounds.

At the end of the ninth inning the score was a tie at one run each. In the tenth inning the rain came down hard for twelve minutes. The home nine were then two runs ahead. Burns, two-baser, brought in a third. The Cincinnati team added three in their half on hits by the Chamberlain, Latham and Conisley.

The winning run in the eleventh was made on McPhee's two-bagger past Joyce, and O'Brien's fumble of the same. Score:

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 30.—All the pitchers were very wild in the first game, but Knell's bases on balls and the errors of his team were the more costly. There was very little good fielding on either side. Gumbert was retired in the fourth inning, Luby taking his place. The Colts were never in danger after the fourth inning, and won easily. Score:

Keefe was substituted in the seventh, and his delivery was too much for them. Vint pitched an excellent game, except in the seventh, when the Phillies bunched five hits and tied the score. PITTSBURGH, Pa., May 30.—Three thousand five hundred noisy people witnessed the defeat of the Baltimore club this morning. One of the features of the game was Welch's pluck in the mud to catch a low liner from Herbar's bat. He was heartily applauded. Another was the wild and reckless throwing of the Baltimore. The home team pleased the spectators by the manner in which they hit the ball, seeming to drop it whenever and wherever inclined. Score:
